BACKGROUND

Terraquest Environmental Consultants, P.C. is preparing a Remedial Investigation Work Plan (Work Plan) for the former Nags Head Shell facility. Gasoline underground storage tanks (USTs) were removed at the facility in 2010. During the subsequent investigation, tetrachlorethylene (PEC) was discovered in soil and groundwater. The PCE contamination is believed to be limited in extent and appears to be associated with a former waste oil UST and parts cleaning area adjacent to the garage. A site location map and a site vicinity map are attached as Figures 1 and 2, respectively.

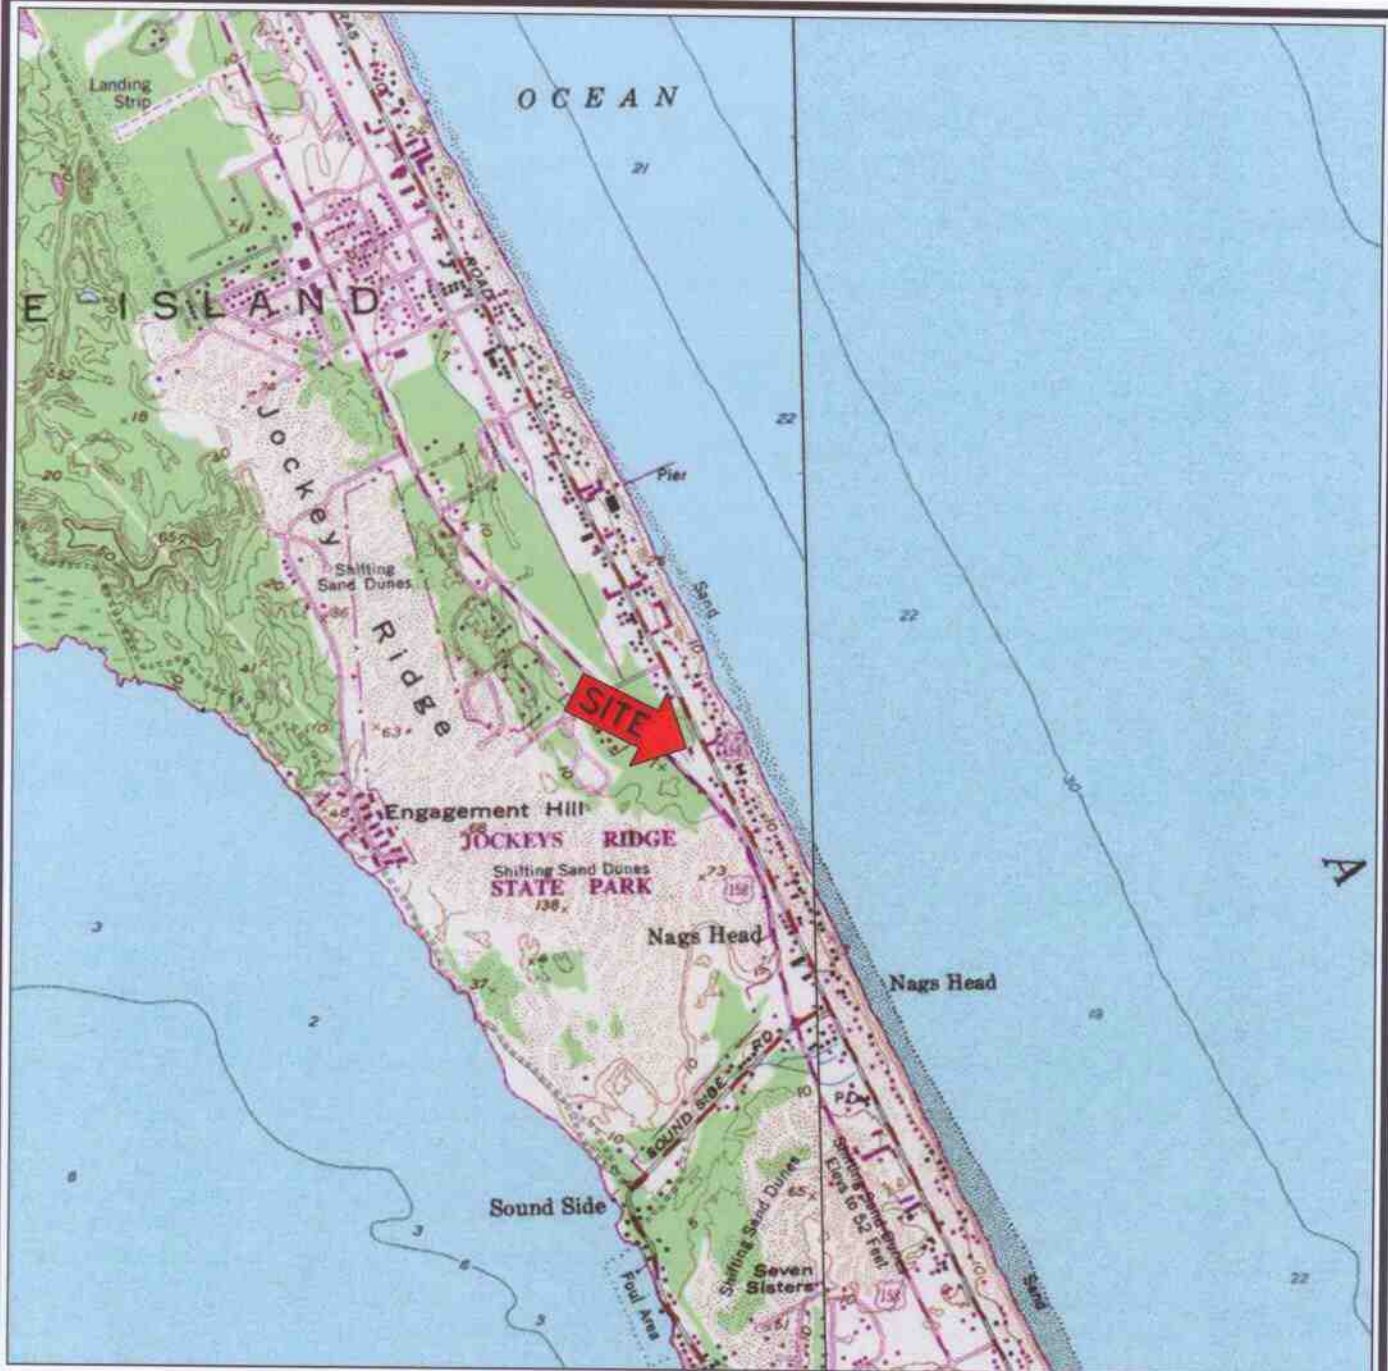

In accordance with the Inactive Hazardous Sites Program (IHSP) Guidelines for Assessment and Cleanup, an evaluation of all properties that make up the site and all adjacent property for the existence of various environmentally sensitive areas must be included in the Work Plan. Terraquest believes that the site assessment and remedial work will be limited to a small area on the subject property.

Please provide information as to the nature of any sensitive environmental areas on the property or nearby. This information may be submitted by email, postal service, or telephone. Contact information is below. If you need further information for this request, please contact us.
