If you've got a complaint or a suggestion for North Carolina's state parks, you can voice it today at 7:30 p.m. in the old Forsyth County Courthouse.

The parks and recreation office of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources is holding the meeting to "find out what people want in their state parks," a spokesman said. It is one of several being held across the state.

At least one environmental group has said it will send a spokesman to the meeting to argue that state parks should not be highly developed.
